Can a town like Milford, where the attendance on games racges about the 4000 mark in a season, with say receipts of about $1000, afford a team with sufficient rank to draw those who have been accustomed to witness games of the highest skill. That base ball is popular no one will deny, but does the Milford team as it has been constituted in the past and probably must be in future, present sufficient attractions to outsiders to induce any considerable number to come here who would not otherwise do so. People attend because the grounds are convenient and it is a cheap way to be amused for a couple of hours, but suppose there was no baseball would they not seek some other form of amusement or recreation. It cost last year about $1700 to support the game, money raised by subscriptions, entertainments and admissions. About $1100 of this sum went out of town to the Banking house, Tuesday, January 10 players in salaries and guarantees. Was this sum compensated by an in- P. A number of banks and Trust com panies recently have advanced the rate of interest on deposits to 4 per cent. If a bank has a large home discount patronage at 6 per cent it can afford to pay this rate but if it must depend on investing in bonds there can be but little profit, while the inducement to take risks for the sake of a larger gain increases. Loans on real estate are seldom above 5 per cent now and they can be taken only by trust companies and savings banks. Competition in rates of interest paid should not be permitted to weaken the stability of a financial institution.

Success in Farming.

Foster D, Coburn of the Kansas Department of Agriculture says that in farming, as in every other business, more depends on the man than on the kind of business. There are people who might be dropped down into the Garden of Eden with everything at hand, and within five years they would be thrown out by the sherifi. There are others, who could AM drop naked into the heart of Sahara and in five years would have the des ert producing every luxury, and Fine Groceries, themselves surrounded by all modarn conventences
